Gabe says "There is a hidden message in this newspaper. It will be up to you to find it. The first fifty people to solve can get an award sheet, signed by the creators. Additionally the first 15 people to solve it will get a prize. We encourage you to not share answers as it will ruin the game for them and also diminish your chances of winning a prize. All students of The Valley School of Southern Oregon will get a shoutout for solving it. All students who receive a prize will receive a prize. You may need to unscramble the final message. Good Luck!"

Proper Portions For Healthy Nutrition

By Olivia C., 8th grade

When it comes to being healthy, nutrition is the key to fuel your body. Eating plenty of nutritious food throughout the day, wherever you may be, can help you stay healthy and strong throughout your lifetime. All of these suggestions are based off of the needs for a 13 year old. The amount will vary based on your person and gender but this is approximately how much you need.

It is important that you feed yourself about 3 ounces of whole grains, about 2-3 cups of vegetables, about 1.5 to 2 cups of fruit about 34 grams of protein, drink about 7-8 cups of water, and about 5-7 teaspoons of healthy oils per day every day.

In conclusion, it is best to feed your growing, hard working body the proper nutrients to stay healthy and strong!

Salal, The Medicine

By: Eliot

The Salal is a pollinator plant. It's flowers can attract pollinators like bees, butterflies and hummingbirds. Salal have lots of medical purposes in both the leaves and berries. They are also grown in Oregon. The berries can be picked from August through June.

The berries can be eaten in many ways including raw. The berries contain lots of antioxidants, vitamins, and minerals. The seeds contain protein. The berries are mealy but very healthy for you. The berries of the salal plants are extremely good for you.

The leaves can be used for coughs, colds, digestion, to make tea for soothing coughs, and more. The tea is also an anti-inflammatory for many parts of your body. Then you can also chew it for placing on burns or sores.

In conclusion salal berries and the leaves are both good for you. So you should eat some for your health.
